

CHRISTIANSTED THEATRE

8.00. THURSDAY EVENING 8.00.

"Her Five-Foot Highness".

Featuring:

"Edith Roberts"FIVE REELS.

This is a top-notch production affording "Edith Roberts" opportunities for varied acting; in the beginning she appears as a blustering ranch girl, who wears caps and shoots with the cowboys.

Late, she goes to England to claim her inheritance, when she appears as a more demure miss, invading the baronial halls of her ancestors like a timid "Peg O' My Heart". But her courage reasserts itself when occasion demands, and she wins out on her rights as an unafraid American girl.

This is a top-notch production having the broad underlying general appeal, the romantic plot material, a splendid contrast of settings and a thoroughly agreeable cast of characters.

The pictures of quiet, cultured home life in England, disturbed by the appearance of one real claimant, and a second false one, are admirably done.

existence, she likely would prove the least Bolshevik of all states. I do not wish to appear to be an alarmist, but if the allies can hold out no prospect of means for continued existence then I fear we must be prepared for an outbreak that would be beyond control of any authority that might be left to Austria. It is common knowledge that the Bolsheviks have made elaborate preparations to utilize Vienna as a center of activity and propaganda. They expect their campaign in this part of the work to synchronize with the disappearance of the Central Government of Austria and spread thence to every country of Europe. I am convinced that provision of part of the $60,000,000 recommended by the Austrian section of the reparation commission can safely be regarded as economic insurance as compared with the expenditure which the British Govt might be involved in the event of the collapse of Austria. There probably never was a moment in the history of the French and British Govts when it was more difficult to find money. The issue, however, is not merely can we afford the money, but also can we afford to face the alternative.

Cork Jan. 14th.—The authorities attach great importance to the result of the raid on the alleged chief arsenal of the Cork first brigade of the republican army, of which the late Terence MacSweeney, was the Commandant, according to the Govt. officials. A Dublin despatch on Thursday said a woman crossing a field just outside Cork attracted the attention of the Military, and that investigation showed that she had dropped a Lewis gun. It was added that a search of the field revealed dugouts which contained rifles and revolvers, quantity of ammunition and other explosives in addition to military equipment and certain papers. The police and military are still searching the place, are said to have unearthed an extraordinary collection of war materials, including Lewis guns and ammunition for them, rifles, revolvers, bombs and Irish Republican army uniforms gelignite, guncotton, megaphones, periscopes, gas masks and mail-bags which had been missing as a result of raids, and also a large quantity of correspondence, which it is anticipated will throw light on recent ambushes and kidnapping. The young woman who played such a daring part on the arrival of the police and military and attempted to save the Lewis guns, was found to be wearing steel body armour, and to be carrying several loaded service revolvers, according to the police. She refused to give the slightest information to the authorities, and with four other persons is in the Cork jail. These persons are said to have rendered themselves liable on conviction to the death penalty, as the area is under martial law. The woman resided with her mother in a cottage near the scene of the war stores, and the police in digging up the cabbage patch in her garden, are declared to have found a considerable amount of gelignite hidden there.
