ST. CROIX STATION.

Paris, Nov. 29th. —Newspapers of all parties, in view of the discord between France and Great Britain, coupled with the Italian display of hostility emphasise the urgent necessity of a frank face-to-face talk between the Allies in order to reach a genuine and lasting understanding. The "Journal Debat" which seldom pleads the British cause, strongly criticizes M. Briand for failure to reach an accord with Great Britain on the Angora affair before going to Washington, "France has no interest" the paper says, "in having the Premier proclaimed the greatest orator in the world by incense bearers, but prefers a statesman who can settle affairs to the satisfaction of all". "La Liberte", points out that recent demonstrations in Italy, owing to a divergence of views between that country and France, should serve as a warning that Great Britain and France must learn to understand each other. The "Temps" and other newspapers approved the suggestion that the two countries talk things over, but many, like the "Intransigeant", insist that there has been a great deal of violent talk and very little. Nearly all the papers endorse M. Briand's attitude at Washington.

London, Nov. 29th. —Increasing attention is given by the London press to President Harding's suggestion of an "association of nations" through a series of International conferences, the conclusions of which would be observed under "Gentlemen's agreement", rather than by treaty. The "Times" in its editorial column today says that Mr. Harding's conception of the principles underlying such an association has in itself a "tonic effect". The newspaper adds: "It is heartening to know that the President, inspired by the results of the Washington conference, is already looking forward to a future from which the possibility of active co-operation by the United States in the solution of acute international problems is not excluded." The "Morning Post" says: "The President aspiration demands serious and respectful consideration. The "Post", however, expressed itself as being not a strong believer in any league or association, and it is not especially enamoured of the present proceedings in Washington interest in and sympathy with the growing movement in the United States for greater participation in world affairs, is expressed by the "Daily News" which says, that the refusal of the United States to enter the League of Nations was regarded in England as proof of her intention to return permanently to the policy of isolation which the war temporarily made impossible.

London, Nov. 29th. —It is announced that the Colonies of Jamaica, Trinidad and the Leeward Islands have already intimated their intention of being represented at the West Indian Conference to be held in Trinidad in January next.

London, Nov. 29th. —Mr. Winston Churchill in a speech in London tonight, spoke strongly in favour of not allowing the Irish negotiation to droop. He believed that hope had not yet been extinguished. Mr. Churchill warmly welcomed the action of Mr. Harding and Mr. Hughes in calling the Washington Conference, which, he declared, promised to bring about a triple understanding between the United States, Great Britain and Japan on Pacific problems. England, he said, would do every thing possible for its success. The Colonial Secretary advocated another triple
