EDITORIAL.

Upon the ground that he would not admit into his home a sheet that advertises books of an immoral nature, the Revd. Joseph W. Daily, C.S.S.R., has requested us to discontinue sending the Avis to the Holy Cross Rectory. We would like to have it understood here that we are not aware of the correctness of the charge of advertising immoral literature, and must insist upon being authorized to accept advertisements from any source when the same are paid for, deal with matter not repugnant to the public culture, and do not represent a fraudulent business. Mr. Mayhew, who has recently published in this paper that he is selling certain books, assures us that those books are entered according to Act of Congress at the office of the Librarian at Washington, D. C., and therefore could not, and do not treat on matters of an immoral character. There's the pro and con of it. We can not tell Mr. Mayhew what books he shall sell or advertise, nor can we reasonably be expected to restrict his privilege of advertising in our paper because his subject may be distasteful to some particular religious sect. The Avis is purely interdenominational and in this respect is not unlike many leading papers in the United States whose liberty to accept advertisements and contributions from the public, is not incroached upon. We trust the public will see this matter in a broadminded light and understand once for all that it is not in the place of the newspaper to attempt to bias the public mind or enslave its ideas into any special groove on religious matters, it being mainly belief that influences religious decision one way or the other and in our opinion and that of authorities on mental philosophy, belief is not controllable even by its possessor, and therefore ought not to become an object of criticism. This paper is open alike to all, irrespective of creed or belief, and so long as the demands of newspaper ethics are complied with, its columns are available to all.

As regards our responsibility in this matter it may be well to refer to a letter in the Avis of 30th ultimo in which Father Daily implies a defence of publishers by stating "they argue they simply do the material part, namely the printing". In the present case we have not even printed the books, but merely accepted a signed advertisement of them, and can therefore lay claim the full support of this argument.

We learn that Mr. Roper who lately went to take duty with the Cable Company at St. Thomas is now transferred to "once, P. R.

We welcome back Radio Operator Carpenter who has been spending a long furlough in the States.
