The town was aroused at 2 a. m. today and is still anxious concerning the weather which had appeared disturbed from yesterday afternoon. The Weather Bureau at San Juan reports moderate disturbance forming over Leeward Islands apparently moving northward, lowest barometer at 8 p. m., 2nd, 29.76 at St. Kitts; caution advised. The barometers in this town which had been gradually falling the lowest record being as far we know, 29.75, are now rising, and it is believed the storm centre has passed. Owing to the weather, the mail-schooner Creole has not arrived here this morning.
