

The Following Notice May Be Read In The Lobby Of The Christiansted Post Office:

Hereafter in accordance with the provisions of amended Section 969 of the Postal Regulations making certain alterations governing the delivery of special-delivery mail, such mail when not registered or C. O. D., or whose delivery is not otherwise restricted, will in the future be delivered without receipts and will be left in regular mail receptacles [including door slot] at places where this convenience is provided, when personal delivery can not be effected. As it frequently occurs that the addressees of special-delivery mail are not found, and no responsible person authorized to receive the mail answers the call, this amendment is calculated to prove of great benefit in simplifying the special-delivery service, and extending its usefulness.

At the same time the fact should be emphasized that the special-delivery system is designed to expedite and not to safeguard mail. The registry system is provided to insure safety, and mail containing currency or other articles of value, should invariably be registered.
