United States Post Office, Christiansted, St. Croix, V. I. Sept. 20, 1920.

B. R. LARSEN,
Postmaster.

It was a pleasure to us to receive the advertisement from Messrs. Fabio intended in this issue, and to which attention of readers is directed. We are glad at all times to afford publicity to cheap prices, especially of foodstuffs, for it is the only proper way by which the public may be informed of this vitally important matter of daily life. It is very pleasing to note the lively effect competition is having to the benefit of the consumer, and the preservation of mercantile reputation.

Schnr. Creole arrived here last night with St. Thomas mails, and mails from New York via St. Thomas by S. S. Thorvald Halvorsen.
