PARAMOUNT PRESENTS ENRICO CARUSO

in

Dural Roles Himself And His Cousin

both interpreted with the skill of a remarkable actor in

"MY COUSIN"

When Caruso appears on the screen he must be judged according to its art, and not that of a grand opera, and he scores an unqualified success within the narrow limitations of a mere vehicle. The story is that of a poor cousin of a great opera singer who brags of the relation and is ridiculed on that account in "Little Italy" until the great tenor comes there during a festa and proves it is true. The most interesting feature of Caruso's two impersonations is the view he gives of what is known as "temperamental" in human nature, himself one of the most illustrious characters on earth.

Show concludes with a side-splitting Mack-Senneth Comedy in two reels entitled

"A Dare Devil Cop"
