same treatment from the dominions that Great Britain gave to those to whom she was indebted.

London, April 19th.—France is spending millions on the occupation and is getting next to nothing out of it, she is using a whale to catch a sprat. This strikingly phrased conclusion is contained in the report of the labour party's delegation which went to the Ruhr about the middle of March to investigate the situation there and in other parts of Germany.

Sinla, April 19th.—Miss Molly Ellis, 15 years old, for whom British troops have been searching feverishly since she was kidnapped near the Afghanistan frontier recently by savage tribesmen after they had slain her mother, has been seen with her captors on the bank of a stream in the Tirah country, thus dispelling the fear that she had also been killed. The belief is growing that she is being held as hostage as part of a plan by the tribesmen to obtain the release of certain of their compatriots now held by the British. The country in which she is held is wild and mountainous and affords many hiding places for the tribesmen, who, having spent their lives among the rocky fastnesses, know every nook and corner. The girl is the daughter of Major Ellis, temporary commander at Kohat.
