

St. Croix Avis.

75TH YEAR.

CHRISTIANSTED, V. I. U. S. A., TUESDAY, 20TH JANUARY 1920.

No. 15.

CHRISTIANSTED THEATRE THURSDAY EVENING 8.30 "THE FIRE FLINGERS" Criminal Film In 7 Parts.

Most exciting film ever flashed on the screen. A Detective Story in which the detectives does not detect anything.

The Story of this famous film will be known to our patrons as having been published in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

The ex-convict RICHARD HATTON having been lately released from the California Prison where he has been learning the printing trade together with another ex-convict, CRISS, seeks a job in the Ollwel printing shop, where both of them are engaged in the morning and fired at noon the same day without pay for the half day's work, when Mr. Ollwel discovers that they are ex-convicts.

Penniless and hungry they are begging for food at the doors of more lucky people's houses, whereby they come to Mr. Ollwel's private house. Mrs. Ollwel, being a good-hearted woman, can not bring it to her heart to turn the two hungry men away and so she served them with a good meal.

During the meal Mr. Ollwel arrives home with the intention to elope with his proof-reader, wherefore he makes himself some 200,000 Dollars Sandwiches in order not to get hungry on the way and later he discovers the two ex-convicts eating in the kitchen; half drunk and furious as he is he attempts to knock them down, whereby he fell and killed himself by knocking his head against the fireplace. Richard Hatton sees clearly that both he and his comrade will come to "swing" on the gallows for having murdered Ollwel, and, seeing the impossibility of escape, they carry the dead man's body out in a back-room, whereby Criss discovers that the ex-convict Richard Hatton's appearance is very much like Mr. Ollwel's. Richard Hatton decides to change his clothes with Ollwel and pose himself as Mr. Ollwel.

This leads to the most exciting and dramatic events which closes up with THE UNBELIEVABLE FACT that Richard Hatton's finger-prints are used to prove that HE is not Richard Hatton but Mr. Ollwel and—but no, you better come and see the balance yourself in Christiansted Theatre, Thursday Evening.

MONEY BACK FILM.

If you have not got satisfaction for your money spent for the ticket for this show, you can request your money back after the performance is over.

This film is given in one show, in spite of that it was intended for two performances, at usual prices.

ADMISSION

Reserved Seats.....	40c.
General Entrance.....	20.