Douglas Fairbank

AMERICA'S MOST FAMOUS SCREEN ACTOR

in

"In Again --- Out Again"

Can you imagine a prisoner who when he is informed about that he has been pardoned protest with the words "Nothing doing I have got twenty more days in this jail, and I stand on my rights". Certainly Douglas Fairbank was quite right. Nobody would like to loose twenty days in such a jail.

If our own Richmond was fitted out in the same style there certainly would be a full house at anytime as nobody would like to leave such a prison.

Show commence with a PARAMOUNT MAGAZINE.

EDITORIAL.

In an advertisement to be found in this issue music lovers are offered a new composition "The Garden of the Virgin Isles" the author of the words and music of which is Mr. Bennett J. Reubel, now of New York, N. Y., a native of this island and son of a former foreman of this printing office. Mr. Reubel Jr. had always been a more than ordinary musician, his favorite instrument being the piano on which he was a skilled player. His composition now offered here should meet a good market we trust, especially when it is noted that the name of the song pays tribute to Mr. Reubel's birth-place, our little island of Saint Croix.
