Belfast, June 6th.—Belfast stately city hall is gaily beflagged for the opening term of the Northern Parliament, which will only be surpassed in brilliance of ceremonial by state opening, which has been fixed for June 22nd Lord Fitzalan, the new Viceroy, who will represent the king at tomorrow's ceremony, will arrive in the morning with Viscountess Fitzalan to pay his first official visit to the northern city. They will be the guests of Lord Pirrie, from whose residence at Ormiston they will drive along the decorated streets to the City Hall. They will be awaited there by the Lord Mayor and City Council, and an address of welcome will be presented. The new parliament will be without a sign of the opposition party for the leaders of the Sinn Fein and the Nationalists are determined to ignore it, as if it did not exist. Apparently also the public is taking little interest in the prospect of the coming of the King for the State opening. The first business tomorrow will be a motion to elect Major O'Neill as speakers. The Viceroy will signify the royal assent to the choice of that member. Mr. Arthur Ir-Dasent, who is clerk of the Journals of the House of Commons, will be clerk of the new house. After the formal swearing in, Sir James Craig will announce the names of his cabinet and they will be immediately confirmed by the Viceroy in an adjoining chamber and raised to the dignity of Privy Counsellors. Thus, the first government will be fully constituted. The new senate will then be elected and parliament adjourned. Among those who will be admitted to the galleries as spectators, will be Church dignitaries, Ulster Peers, public officials, naval and military officers and all the Ulster members of the Imperial Parliament and their wives. The first number of the Ulster Gazette published under authority of the Government, will be issued on Wednesday.
