GENERAL STATEMENT

This bill extends the provisions of the Federal Credit Union Act to the Virgin Islands.

Federal credit unions are cooperative associations organized for the purpose of promoting thrift among its members and creating a source of credit for provident or productive purposes. Members are given encouragement and inducement to save by having depositories for their savings at their place of employment. They are also provided funds, in the form of loans repayable in installments, to meet sudden emergencies and times of need.

Federal credit unions in addition to operating successfully in the continental United States, operates in Alaska, Hawaii, and the Panama Canal Zone. The need for low cost consumer credit is as great in the Virgin Islands as in other localities where Federal credit unions are now operating. The extension of the act to the Virgin Islands would result only in nominal additional administrative expense.
