The grand chorus "Praise Ye" by W. A. Mozart, contained some beautiful obbligato effects and brought out nicely the tonal beauty of the truly resourceful organ; the same can be said of "Crown Him Lord of All", with its varying vocal parts and stirring grand finale. The solo "The Holy City" by Amos Hughes, tenor, was well rendered and combined with the soft rolling tones of the sonorous bass and the fortissimo interludes of the organ accompaniment served to make this rendition quite a feature.

An effective soft voluntary entitled "Adoration" with variations was used as a prelude and the pompous march in B flat by Galbraith as a postlude.

Bishop E. C. Greider conducted the service and the reading of the "Har"
