FROM THE POLICE.

THE attention of all owners and drivers of low carts, porters, and cartmen in the Island of St. Croix is hereby called to the following paragraphs of the Ordinance of 15th May 1875 concerning Porters and Cartmen.

Paragraph 17th.

"Carts must always be loaded in a proper manner, so that there be no danger of their being upset, or of their dropping the load, or of their breaking down on the way, of their causing damage or inconvenience to the traffic, or to passers by. No cart-load with one horse, must, without special permission, be of a greater weight than 800 lbs. on level ground, and half of that weight up-hill.

Paragraph 18.

"The Police may cause vehicles (carts, horses, and harness) to be examined at any time, in order to ascertain whether they are in a state suited to the requirements and safety of the public, and adapted to the other considerations that must be observed. If any portion of the vehicle be found incomplete, or out of order, the Police will give the necessary injunction, which must always be obeyed without delay; the Police may also, if considered necessary, prohibit further use for a time, or permanently, of the vehicle, either the whole or any part thereof, and the parties are furthermore liable to other responsibility according to law, especially the enactments concerning punishment for ill-treatment of animals, and to the forfeiture of their license".

Richmond Sick house spoken of among the medical men as a poor house instead of a sickhouse; the people sent there are old and unable to work and have no home, but as far as I have seen and heard, I am not able to say more; but I am of the opinion though that if the Doctors look more fully into the matter they would see that many of these people are unable to support themselves and require more support than they are getting at present.

Already in the year 1878 or thereabout, as far as I recollect, there was a proposal in this Council for the establishing of a poor house, and this matter has on several later occasions again been discussed, but of course, not having the necessary funds it has been left undone.

Further the Member would like to know if it is through lack of means the patients were discharged from the Richmond Sick-house?

Doctor Olephant answered, No.

The Chairman elucidated that the question of establishing a poor house is a very live one and that it is the intention
