bear the heavy traffic. If we are going to do any thing to the roads let us have something new than something old fashioned. There are many second class roads that the people are complaining about, because they want to have these roads as good as any automobile road. This Ordinance is introduced for a good purpose, I concur with it as I consider we should have something modern.

PASSING NOTES.

The Easter Musical Services, sacred in character, were started on Friday night at the Lutheran Church, where Mr. Genaro de la Motta our young baritone, was the prominent figure, accompanied by Organist Smith, he sung in clear accents, the "Seven Last Words Of Christ". The climax was however reached on Sunday when a sextette of Navy bandsmen at the Episcopal Church performed on their instruments at interval adding profound solemnity to the service, Miss Marie Moorehead performed on the organ.

On Sunday night to close the season, a cantata was rendered at the Moravian Church where the children discoursed recitations; the choir led by three organists, successively furnished the music. Bandsman Sarauw was trumpeter for the evening; and a violin solo "Lead Kindly Light" the theme and obligato respectively, being tastily rendered by Mrs. Allen, wife of the presiding pastor, accompanied by the adept fingers of organist Miss Rengger.—Com.

Dear Sir:—

I read an Observer's contribution in today's issue with much gusto. Indeed it is a treat to note that there are still some who realize that it is not necessary to assassinate reason and justice in order to be good and charitable toward our fellow-men, which after all, is one of the best features if not the most tangible evidence of our civilization,—although, it has come to that now where to satisfy certain religious fanaticism one has got to show that he retains a percentage of the barbaric. I hear that the laws of the Anglican Church prohibit its members from dabbling in the affairs of contemporary religions. I would just like to ask whether the late Canon Watson, one of the most beloved and appreciated ministers we ever had on the island, a man who ran St. John's Church on sane lines, was perverting the church laws when he and members of the anglican choir, including Mrs. Watson and Rev. Levo, participated in cantatas and musical services in the Moravian Church the unity with which body rather reflected the broadmindedness and largeness of heart of the lamented gentleman. Certainly his and the present position sustained cannot both be correct. Not to speak of numerous other striking oddities and differences, I would simply ask which is right, and how those folks who in their religion remind me of weather cocks reconcile the two. They ought to know where they stand—or do they not know?

ANOTHER OBSERVER.

ANOTHER DISAPPEARANCE WITH "MYSTERY".

"Has any one seen Mr. Rivera?"

"How's that?" came another question before answering the first.

"Well, he went aboard ship with us, to see a friend, who from St. Thomas is going to Porto Rico in the service of his company."

"And has he not been seen since?"

"Not for many days," was the reply.

"Well, he has become an unwilling passenger aboard the "Mystery" with one only suit on his back."

"Ha, ha, ha! That's a cinch, I hope to tell you."—Contributed.
